

CoreWrite® Program

Good writing and critical thinking are two of the most important skills a student must have in order to achieve in school. In addition, solid writing and strong analysis will serve your child well for the rest of his/her life. The ability to represent oneself well on paper will help a student secure not only a spot in one of the most prestigious universities, but also a job after he/she finishes college. Let us help your child improve his/her writing today. To help your child write better, our writing program focuses on how to develop ideas, organizing ideas, proof-reading, and other writing skills.

WHAT YOUR CHILD WILL LEARN

*These mini-lessons focus on individual elements of composition for the purpose of strengthening students' writing skills. Each writing mini-lesson includes materials that are appropriate for each student's developmental writing level.

SKILL LESSONS	DESCRIPTION
CONVENTION	how to edit compositions for basic conventions appropriate to each level of writer
ENDING	how to write effective fiction and nonfiction endings
OPENING	how to write effective and varied opening hooks for fiction and nonfiction compositions
SENTENCES	how to write effective simple, combined, compound, and complex sentences to vary the sentence structure within compositions
WORD CHOICE	how to improve word choice to make compositions more interesting and precise

CONTENT OF OUR PROGRAM

GENRES	DESCRIPTION
EXPOSITORY	a genre of writing that informs, describes, or explains with text types such as: autobiography, biography, descriptive, essay, experiment, informational report, and media article
NARRATIVE	a genre of writing that entertains or tells a story with text types such as: adventure, fairy tale, fantasy, historical fiction, mystery, personal narrative, realistic fiction, and science fiction
PERSUASIVE	a genre of writing that attempts to convince readers to embrace a particular point of view with text types such as: advertisement, editorial, persuasive essay, political cartoon, pro/con, and review
PROCEDURAL	a genre of writing that explains the instructions or directions for completing a task with text types such as: experiment, how to, and recipe
TRANSACTIONAL	a genre of writing that serves as a communication of ideas and information between individuals with text types such as: business letter, friendly email, friendly letter, interview, invitation, postcard, speeches, and weblog entry